Traditional style in bathrooms never seems to go out of fashion. If you have a period property it's easy to re-furbish your bathroom/s using traditional products as there are so many to choose from.

At Aston Matthews we specialise in high quality traditional products, some made in the same way as over 100 years ago and to the same design.

A free standing bath always makes a statement and works very well in a traditional setting. They can be painted to match a wallpaper feature, wall paint or tiles so can really bring the scheme together.

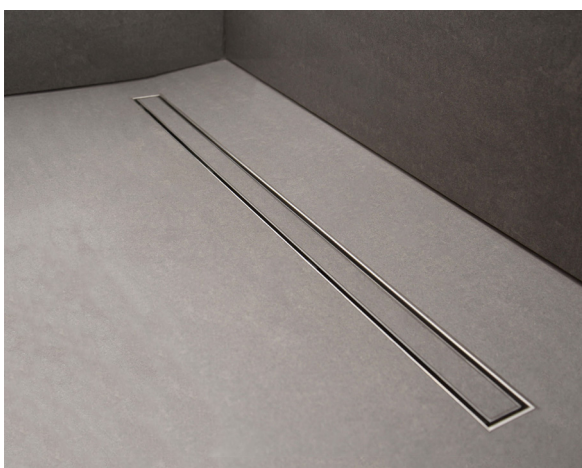

Fittings now come in a range of finishes. You might want to add an eclectic feel by using a brushed finish taps, or bronze, or black! It is important to choose matching ranges across your fittings and sanitary ware that work together aesthetically.

LESS IS MORE.....

Contemporary bathrooms can work in a modern or period property which is being up-dated.

Lines are generally much cleaner than a traditional aesthetic. Wall hung wc's and basins/ furniture allow for ease of cleaning and a feeling of space. Keep profiles to a minimum with open, walk in showers with a tiled, tanked floor rather than a traditional shower tray. Wet room trays are designed to sit level with your floor and your floor tiles can continue into the shower area. Be sure to purchase a good quality wet-floor system and employ a fitter who is familiar with fitting them. Once properly fitted, your bathroom floor will be tanked and water-tight.

You might want to introduce an urban/ industrial feel with brushed finishes or scuffed brass like our Acme range.

Let us help with your design and product choices. Just bring in your floor plan and an idea of what you'd like and leave the rest to us!
