

The innovative design makes the basin appear to float as the structural strength is so deceptively hidden from view.

A white rectangular wall-mounted sink with a brass faucet and handles, set against a dark blue tiled wall. The sink is mounted on a wall of large, square, dark blue tiles with light-colored grout. The faucet is a single-lever design with a central spout and two side handles, all in a polished brass finish. The sink itself is a simple, clean-lined rectangular basin. The lighting is bright, creating reflections on the sink's surface and the tiles.